

Deepwood Lodge

☰ Tags	Organization
🕒 Last Edited	@August, : PM

The strangest and most inscrutable mercenaries in the Broken Kingdoms. They recruit the poor and desperate, the shunned and insane, societal cast-offs, shamans, and cultists. Their unofficial mantra is quantity over quality - there are a lot of them, and they die a lot, but there is always more they can round up from the dregs of society. They are also very easy for the average person to hire; rather than gold, they demand strange forms of payment. Examples include twin sows both pregnant with twins, or the branch of an ash tree shaped like a spiral, etc.

Base: Wiccanden, a camp deep in the Blackveil Forest. Rarely visited by outsiders.

Notable People: Kuranes the Dreamer, a half-elf shaman who guides the Lodge based on her dreams and visions. Old Man Marsh, a taciturn human, cracks the whip that keeps the Lodge together.

